STUDENTS: SHARPEN YOUR SKILLS WITH 'STUDY JAM'

MISSOULA -

Students looking for help outside the classroom in Spanish, statistics, chemistry and physics will have a new study opportunity beginning Sept. 8.

The STUDY JAM service will allow individuals and study groups to gather at study tables hosted by professional tutors on weeknights this semester in the University Center Commons. At the free group tutoring sessions, students can share their different observations and views while finding specific help.

Study group tables will be hosted for the following courses: Spanish, levels 101-202; statistics, math 241; chemistry, levels 151-152 and 161-162; and physics, levels 121-122.

Statistics tutors will be available from 6:30-9:30 p.m. Tuesday and Wednesday, Sept. 9-10.

Check the Montana Kaimin the week of Sept. 8 for an advertisement listing additional dates and times.

The Writing Center and the Math Learning Centers will continue their services for students who would like academic help in those areas.

For more information, call Associate Provost Arlene Walker-Andrews at 406-243-4689
